

The Honourable Nancy Greene Raine speaks at AGM 2010

For a generation of Canadians, there was no greater sporting hero than Nancy Greene Raine.

She was the female Wayne Gretzky of the slopes, she had reached the pinnacle of international skiing and her name still elicits memories of sporting grandeur more than 40 years later.

Now a senator, the Olympic ski legend shared her story with Cornwall as the guest speaker at the 14th Annual General Meeting of the Children's Treatment Centre.

"Senator Nancy Green Raine has inspired thousands of Canadians to reach for their dreams," said Pierre Guindon, President of the Children's Treatment Centre. "She's the epitome of excellence, determination and concern for the public, traits which are seen not only in her athletic career but also in her more recent public service."

Skiing legend, Olympic gold medalist and Canadian Senator Nancy Greene Raine helped hand out awards to donors during the annual general meeting. She lauded the centre for its efforts in helping children affected by abuse.
